

International Coach Certification Training

▶ 13,000+ coaches ▶ 67 countries ▶ 100+ certifications per year

“ Becoming a certified coach was my goal. When I carefully researched about a certification training, I thoroughly investigated all the other institutions, but none had offered more blended curriculum, well structured, effectively delivered, and ultimately reliable as the ICS Coaching Certification Training. I would recommend this certification training to anyone that wants to become a coach or to experienced coaches.

Claudia Salazar – Program Manager/
Life/Business Coach

“ A well put together and useful program that went deep and wide, with clearly-defined concepts, good pacing, appropriate use of repetition and reinforcement, a thoughtful mixture of content and practice, mentoring and community building, and inspiration. Thank you!

Barbara Dyar

“ This Coach training experience far exceeded my expectations. The experiential learning and face to face presentations are unique in today's Coach training environment.

Reverend Marilyn Wadkins –
Texas Conference of the United Methodist Church

Delivered in sixteen languages in more than 20 countries through a network of Certified Trainers, you also gain the benefit of joining a network of professional coaches who have the same vision, values and ethics in coaching.

What opportunities are you missing by not being an accredited coach?

With the right coaching skills, you can make better decisions, build stronger teams, clarify goals and values, engage employees, inspire action, instil trust, influence opinions and address limiting beliefs, fears and mental blocks that can be holding individuals and organisations back from the level of achievement that they are capable of.

In other words, knowing how to coach is essential for your personal, professional and organisational development and success.

This training was awarded the European Quality Award (EQA) in 2010 by the European Coaching and Mentoring Association (EMCC).

Who will benefit?

Wondering if the ICC International Coaching Certification is right for you? If you understand the value of coaching and how these skills can open up new markets, business opportunities and career paths, then the answer is likely to be yes!

Our experience tells us that the people and professions that can get the most value out of this certification are often:

- High-level executives, leaders, managers and HR professionals who will use coaching skills to accelerate people development and results in their organisations.
- Personal, business and career coaches who are looking to build their capability and credibility through internationally recognised training.
- Business owners, consultants, professionals, trainers, teachers, psychologists, counsellors and other health and wellbeing specialists who want to expand their skills, services and practices by becoming better skilled at coaching delivery.

What you will gain?

Through the International Coach Certification Training you will develop ICC core coaching competencies, empowering your current profession and leadership with new skills and competencies or building a new career as a professional Coach.

Giving you the insights, skills and highly effective practical methodology you need to make a transformative impact with your clients or team, the ICC Coaching Accreditation provides you with detailed training on:

- How to develop your own coaching style.
- How to develop and use intuition.
- How to devise action plans that work.
- The powerful questions that change lives and WHEN to ask them.
- The art of listening.
- How to assign tasks to get the best results and what to do if these aren't accomplished.
- How to time your interventions to achieve the maximum impact.
- How to make requests, establish challenges, and design tasks.
- How to achieve maximum change with minimum effort.
